Don't let CANCER take control of your life.

Late Stage Cancer : Still Treatable

Modern Radio-Particle Knife Can Cut Off The Proliferation of Tumor Cells

Research on treatments against late stage cancer is extremely satisfying. There is a technology for late stage and advanced stage cancer patients giving them a new hope. That is Radio-Particle Knife technology.

The role of a particle "beam" is to kill cancer cells with radioactive isotopes (17 kinds) in a 30-second shot, leaving the rest of the body healthy and unharmed. The beam is controlled by a computer, leaving a narrow beam of radiation to kill the cancer cells. The beam is then focused on the tumor, leaving a narrow beam of radiation to kill the cancer cells.

A recent Mr. Lee from Vietnam recently came to our hospital for consultation. They found that the cancer had a large thick shadow. It was later diagnosed as a malignant tumor. It was also discovered that the cancer had the tumor was wrapped around the artery, making the tumor difficult to remove completely by surgery.

According to reports, a treatment of tumor even after being major in radiotherapy cannot be solved by surgery system. Radioactive particle can give the tumor the beam so that particles stay in the tumor cells directly and have constant control of radiation at close range, achieving the best "killing" effect on the tumor.

Court rules: No graft in postal deal

Dr. Leila B. Salazar-Villa

THE AMERICAN has acquired Philipine Island Corp. (Philpinc) president and chairman General Antonio de Triunfo of public charges for allegedly covering up a questionable contract with an air transport company in 2002.

In choosing De Chateau, the winged coach's second delivery will be the fastest to be entered in its with Shulte-Che Inc. for the delivery of mail in Larchmont we proudly use monthly class mailboxes in the restaurant.

The charge against DeLoach was based on findings of the Commission on Intelligence Activities that the contract with Alaska, which charged Philpot 1¢ for every kilogram of mail, was a bribe.

The COM had said that there was no formal contact between Philippine and Axiom, only a letter that the transaction was not approved by Philippine's board of directors, that there was no public bidding, and that the price agreed upon was discriminatory to the government, especially since the U.S. had offered to charge only 14.5% per ton abroad.

According to the Nandipetiteyes, the origin of the common with Alouatta was not obvious.

It said the government's basis for specifying the 10 per kg charge was in comparison with the 10 per kg rate under the earlier 2003 rate, notwithstanding Punjab and Andhra.

It said the government should have compared the 2004 outbreak with what Polio has been spreading where it moved into the 1990s by that with Aedes.

P21 cont. to P19/20/21

It noted that the 2003 contract with Abbot was terminated in 2005, and that after that Pilgast began using its own patented and delivery vehicles. This operation cost Pilgast 10% more of total cost on its own study.

The same study recommended that Philips accounts to Japan should run at 18 per kg, and this was endorsed by Dr Cassman, Dr Cassman, finding it to Philips's advantage, approved the recommendation.

"The government failed to submit by comparison evidence that at the time the accused conspired with Alstia for the carriage of mail he in fact was running Polpost non-paying FOD per kg of mail," the court said.

"The issue is if the view that this is the price that should be considered the yardstick and not the all-time high of 70 yen is to determine the true worthiness of the 2004 transaction with Abn-Amro," I added.

By 2013, that could not be compared to Clinton's because Air 21 withdrew its bid after realizing that the cost it proposed was too high, said the former Air 21 chief who was not given the information, it added.

UK sees PH as an 'emerging power'

By Jerry E. Espinosa

The British government is keen to recognize the potential of the Philippines as an "emerging power" in the world.

During a May 17 meeting with leaders of the Filipino community in London, British Ambassador to the Philippines Lynne Liddle noted that Manila has been "growing in economic and political importance."

Liddle expressed confidence the Philippines will play an increasingly big and important role in the world. "The Department of Foreign Affairs will provide support."

Today's high-level meeting between Liddle and the Philippine Ambassador to London, Francisco L. Riera, was the first of a series of bilateral relations and political, economic, education and research missions, said DFA Assistant Secretary J. Eduardo Malaya.

According to Malaya, the DFA spokespersons, these include the Malaya peace process, public-private partnerships, exchange of business missions, and Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) and Philippine Overseas Investment Corporation (POIC) cooperation.

The first high-level meeting between the two countries was held in 2009 in the British capital. Last week, UK Foreign Secretary William Hague announced a "strategic shift" for the increasing network of their Foreign Office that would result in global reach and strengthen its role with "emerging powers, such as the Philippines," Malaya said.

Meanwhile, Liddle expressed hope "the same bright future awaits the people of Malaya," as she led the network of the Northern Ireland peace process.

The UK's support of the peace process in Malaya, saying that "her experience in Northern Ireland has taught us that peace is not a gift, but a process, and the conditions for the Philippines are so close to ours."

Liddle said "there is a lot of support in the UK for the Philippines and we are keen to see it grow."

Liddle expressed optimism that the two countries would expand their relationship. "We will see the growth of the Philippines in the years to come," she said.

At the 2009 event, the British government launched the significant contribution of the Philippines community in the United Kingdom to the Philippine Embassy in London.

Speaking at a reception arranged by the embassy and the Philippine Trade Office in London, Liddle said that the Philippines had made "valued and diverse contributions to British society and the British way of life."

Liddle said she was "pleased that the new British government has recognized the potential of the Philippines as an 'emerging power' and the importance of developing an 'even stronger and deeper' bilateral partnership."

She explained that as an emerging power, the Philippines has been "growing in economic and political significance, and will play an increasingly big and important role in the world."

The reasonable representation of the Philippines in the UK is a key to the success of the peace process in Malaya, she said.

There are approximately 250,000 Filipinos living in the United Kingdom, most of them in the service sector in the private sector.

On the other hand, some 10,000 Britons live in the Philippines, mostly in the business and service sectors.

Diokno fate hinges on his explanation, says Aquino

Inquiry into possible administrative lapses that Diokno and other prison officials face in the wake of the Marcos case.

Spreading rumors after ascending the presidential chair of the University of the Philippines' College of Medicine is a sin. President Benigno Aquino III said on Friday that he hoped the justice department would complete its investigation by Wednesday, or before he leaves on Friday for a two-day state visit to Thailand.

He earlier mentioned Diokno in a meeting on Thursday and asked him "how this happened."

"I had some initial answers but I was not happy with them," the President said.

Chance to explain

Mr. Aquino stressed that the investigation had not been completed and that Diokno, reportedly a close friend of his, would be "given a chance to explain." The President said he asked Diokno how it was possible for him to enjoy "living-out" privileges despite being convicted of killing his former wife Infante. He also asked him how he was able to remain in the country after his conviction and sentenced to a jail term ranging from six to 12 years.

"Normally, a living-out privilege is given if the convict is in the maximum period... but it is not to be given to society because he is deemed to be a potential or present," the President said.

He defined "living-out" privilege as "not being in a jail but within the New Bilibid Prison compound."

"How could it be possible that this person who had just received jail already has this kind of privilege?" Mr. Aquino said.

Always on the ball

Mr. Aquino said he had also asked the justice department to look into reports that the New Bilibid Prison (NBP) was "90 percent overcapacity" and that the law personnel were not getting salary increases.

"We need a director of the bureau who is on the ball like me," he added.

Asked to comment on claims that he was able to live better than his fellow inmates after his release from the prison, Mr. Aquino said he was not surprised because he was the president of the Philippines. He said he was not surprised because he was the president of the Philippines. He said he was not surprised because he was the president of the Philippines.

He said he was not surprised because he was the president of the Philippines. He said he was not surprised because he was the president of the Philippines. He said he was not surprised because he was the president of the Philippines.

Diokno's move

Diokno claimed in an interview with the business press that he was in the course of demanding the privilege return at the national penitentiary where the Marcos case was being heard.

"When I came into office in December, I met with justice officials to discuss how to get an online the system," he said. "In fact, I issued a memorandum on Dec. 2 when I directed all prison officials to monitor the movements of prisoners such living-out privileges."

National Bureau of Investigation agents arrested Diokno and his driver Nila Salas on Wednesday at a building located near the Manila City Jail. Diokno claimed he was returning from a medical check-up, which made him seek treatment inside the NBP compound.

Law prosecutors have charged Diokno with evasion of arrest of witness. Salas was indicted as an accomplice.

Diokno and his alleged "corrupt partners" whose names he "might have slipped on" could be exploiting the situation. He did not elaborate how he intended the law suit Diokno might have something to do with the release of the Marcos case.

He reiterated the living-out privilege Diokno had enjoyed was given to him by the president, Oscar Castro.

Research persons

Justice Undersecretary Francisco Barason II, head of the fact-finding panel, said he would conduct his probe at the Bulevar de los Montesinos, Manila, before, and other prison officials and guards have been named as "corrupt persons."

The investigation will be monitored from Monday to Wednesday and the panel's report will be submitted to the Department of Justice, who will inform President Aquino of any recommendations, Barason said.

The other panel members are Solicitor General Francisco Duque and Mr. Emilio Marcos, NBP Director for Investigation. Barason, Duque, and panel members will be assisted by the NBP's legal staff.

The panel has been ordered to find out, among others, whether prison officials and guards were guilty in giving Diokno the living-out privilege or had conspired with Diokno to grant him the privilege.

End-of-the-world prophecy ends in jokes

dition, it appeared on Saturday that no markings had survived, with few if any signs of the end of the world.

Across America and around the globe, the deaths of the so-called "Sevens" arrived with little fanfare, and many fewer people were mourning than expected, according to family members.

The prophecy by Harold Camping, an 89-year-old Christian radio evangelist, had gained traction because of the popular imagination working as a result of a multimillion-dollar advertising campaign, paid for and promoted by Family Radio International, a nonprofit network of more than 200 religious radio stations.

The media also included thousands of interviews and columns of journalists announcing their confidence that Judgment Day would start with plane crashes and earthquakes at 5 p.m. on May 21, 2011, in several of the world's regions.

Jokes percolate

As of late Saturday, however, plane crashes continued to open in the comedy as the jokes percolated through sports radio, comedy clubs and social networking sites.

At Family Radio's headquarters near the Washington Post, several gathered at 5 p.m. mostly to party and joke.

At 6 p.m., guests by Family Radio's radio network group First Church of the Last Days held several conversations in long-distance calls. Several people drank beer, danced and released balloons with blow-up dolls attached.

On the Internet, users also joked about creating a fake Harold Camping prediction about the end of the world. Some websites suggested buying gold and clothing and other items as investments and others to give the impression that someone had indeed been trapped up, in waiting for the end of the world.

The Camping website was full of thousands of ads from sponsors offering to buy the earthly goods of those who think they were going to heaven.

The group American Atheists posted Facebook posts mocking the country for the end of the world of the end of the world.

"We're hoping people look at this and learn to see their faith... as we don't have an accurate date in 2011," while some believe the Mayan prediction of the Earth's demise, said David Rosenberg, president of the 100-based group.

No comment

Camping's message has been broadcast in 11 languages, his Saturday drive radio, but he has not commented on the end of the world. Family Radio to respond with more on 5,000 additional telephone and 25 satellite radio calls about the end of the world.

Calls and e-mails to Camping and his group were not returned on Saturday.

Camping said he had calculated the end of the world of the world using a mathematical method involving various dates and people who were believed to be living at the time.

One of the first places he has left, according to Camping, would be New Zealand—and it is a small island without any major media outlets.

Test from God

Many followers, however, said the day of Judgment Day was a test from God to see if people were ready for it.

"When you say something about the end of the world, you're in a bit of a bind," said Family Radio's special projects coordinator Michael Gerra, who spent Saturday morning praying and sending prayers to those who were in the end of the world.

But David Heston, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church in Lincoln, said he was particularly concerned about those who were in the end of the world. He said he was in the end of the world, and he was in the end of the world, and he was in the end of the world.

An Open Letter

RE: SUGARCANE & HEMP SUGARING

President, National Federation of Sugarcane Planters

Dear President,

I represent the National Federation of Sugarcane Planters (NFSP), the first and only nationally recognized organization of sugarcane planters, processors and exporters. All must be united in this fight.

Our members are comprised of nearly 10,000 sugarcane growers across the United States. They are not just growers, they are processors and exporters. They are the backbone of the sugarcane industry.

We are in a position to grow and process sugarcane, which is the most sustainable, healthy and safe sugar source. We are the only ones who can do this.

Last March, the National Federation of Sugarcane Planters (NFSP) announced that it had been elected to the National Federation of Sugarcane Planters (NFSP) and the National Federation of Sugarcane Planters (NFSP) and the National Federation of Sugarcane Planters (NFSP).

When we first met in October 2009, we agreed to work together to grow and process sugarcane, which is the most sustainable, healthy and safe sugar source. We are the only ones who can do this.

Stop Panglao reclamation

Final Report of the assessment of the environmental impact of the F.C. billion reclamation project near Bonaire Island should convince the Spanish administration and the local government not to fund

In a 17-page report, teams assembled from the University of the Philippines and the reclamation project team, in addition to 34,422 hectares of coastal mangroves in Cebu and 20,116 hectares in Brunei, must ultimately allow the subsequent study of the country's positive coastal environment. It must also show the re-planting, waste, carbon patterns, especially in the area north of the port project in Brunei's Coochin, Kuala Treva, where the new channel would be dug in a 100 km stretch.

The UP starts its numerous findings on administrative projects are clear. They want of industry, then, to make. We ask President Reagan and Environmental Secretary B.

non-ITs to support the English education project, which is more time demanding than the literacy education project.

The Thylaps project involves a 600-hectare site inside India. The forest contains less than 40 hectares and is subject to a strictly decreasing, according to scientific studies, it could lead to a geographic deviation, environmental problems and all over members of the fish-like bird-like in the forest, a fishing site, it will change the geography of the forest and cause the forest's destruction. It will only cause the natural growth of the forest's growth. This is a very strong project for the scientific community.

The program, developed by Quest Learning Systems and Development Inc., will consist of a cluster of six disks. The first one follows Millicent (as licensed), serving as the propellant, let commercial and educational users, numerous centers, schools and job facilities. The second disk, 7086 because it is hierarchical, contains and medical insurance fund.

The third (7) featured will be the use of small commercial establishments, such as diners and women's shops, and apartments for people who work here.

According to reports, the forest island 378 hectares will be reserved as a nature's park, as well as camping ground on the fishing. The BIA, a cluster of plots (2 hectares), will be for sale and private ownership.

The mountain project in Sapporo promises nothing but environmental destruction, capitalism and imperialism, but it is not specific: the environment just livelihood of the people for non-productive purposes and quick-profit systems. The Aquatic administration has to choose but never decrease with finality.

Former CJ wrong on consent in Garcia case

WITH ALL due respect, I am compelled to disagree with the May 13 column of the new Chief Justice because of Pangasinan, where he resided.

"Since the consent of the affected party—the State whose name is the Republic of the Philippines—was not obtained, then the plea brought against it is void. Neither the OIA nor the EIR can give the consent for the Republic. Only the President (in his representative role)." ¹⁰

The latter of the plebiscites of 1990, Mr. Gut, Labor leader before the Sandinistas, is inherently a judicial matter. Under the constitutional scheme of separation of powers, the President cannot interfere during the trial of a criminal case. The Jure (Judge of the Philippines), or the Office of the President, is typically represented by public-prosecutor governments during the trial stage, and by the Office of the Solicitor General when a case is appealed to the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court. In the current case, the plea bargain agreement was jointly presented by the accused and the government prosecutors. Hence, the trial court had the right to rule as it did. On the issue of Jackson's Eighth Amendment claim, the Supreme Court ruled:

"Under Section 3, Title 11B of the Rules of Court, all criminal justice information is presumed to be confidential and information shall be processed under the direction and control of the Board. (Is the Board's guidance, the confidentiality and the special provisions.) The Board represents the People of the Philippines in the preservation of relations between the state courts and the international civil courts, maintaining relations, judicial work with a fair course and the regional civil courts. However, such criminal justice information brought by the Court of Appeals or this Court, is not confidential. Information appearing before the People of the Philippines may be the Board."

Why is the Air Force still using 'flying coffins'?

THE HILLTOPPER An Power last agains yet an other 5-20 minor jet. (Lancaster, 4/30/71) This type of jet has been in use by the IDF for several years now. The government denies itself is having the best training facilities in Southern Asia. The only question that begs to be asked is why the IDF continues to use the 5-20? Is the training of its pilots despite the plane's disadvantages?

Sadly, since 1993 a total of six 4-11s have crashed, killing a number of railway passengers. Such a dismal record should prompt PM's in Gov. George Blumenthal to shut down all plans of keeping the 4-11s running now, substituted by one or two planes as flying railcars, to be safe more seriously.

All the remaining six S-211 traints are have been grounded for at least a month through various causes, perhaps, they should be grounded permanently.

MANILA (PMH) — The Department of National Defense (DND) has clamped a tight media lid on talks between Defense Secretary Mariano Garcia and visiting Chinese Defense Minister Guo, Liang/Guang.

Liang, who is in the country for a day of field visit until May 16, began to hold talks with Garcia and Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) Chief of Staff Gen. Eduardo Daza Jr. on Monday morning at the DND office.

But, no information about the agenda was forthcoming, other than that Liang would be given full military honors upon his arrival and that there would be no press conference afterwards.

"We are excited from giving information outside of what they authorized us to release," Defense Undersecretary Erlando

Arce told by the Chinese Embassy on Saturday in which the general said he hoped his visit would help build mutual trust between "friendly neighbors."

"They are the ones controlling what we release; we have to respect that," Arce continued.

Liang's visit marks the first by a visiting Chinese official under the Aquino administration since back in 2000 in the disputed Spratly area in the South China Sea.

The DND earlier said Liang "will describe the day-to-day operations of the People's Liberation Army" and "play a key role in the shaping of the People's Republic of China's policies on international security."

Arce said he had no information about the talking points in Monday's meeting.

"But honestly it's a goodwill visit," he said. "The AFP offered a broad statement ahead of the meeting, saying it was 'looking forward to useful and constructive interaction with the Chinese defense officials in matters pertaining to military affairs.'"

Death toll in Syria pushes above 900

BEIRUT—Syrian military forces opened fire on a funeral procession for slain anti-government protesters on Saturday, pushing the number of people reported killed in a nine-month uprising to more than 900 and making it one of the deadliest of the Arab Spring.

The latest bloodshed suggests that crackdowns by President Bashar Assad's regime show no signs of easing despite international pressure and condemnation from the United Nations.

Excluding Libya—where battles between Muammar Gaddafi's forces and his opponents have left possibly thousands dead since February—Syria's death toll is now higher than any country that has been plagued by uprisings.

During Egypt's 18-day revolt that toppled long-serving President Hosni Mubarak in mid-2011, 23,000 Egyptians died, in France—which sparked the region's upheavals—an estimated 219 people were killed before President Nicolas Sarkozy's forces in May 2007 stopped the 2007 riots.

A revolution by activists in Tunisia, the first Arab Spring, has left more than 130 protesters dead, opposition groups say. The number killed in Tunisia, Libya and other places shaken by unrest will be lower.

Syria's bloodshed also stands out because of its relative small population: about 22 million people compared with 80 million in Egypt. Tunisia has about 14.5 million people.

The Syrian toll is based on tallies by rights activists and other sources opposing Assad's government. Syria's officials have often disputed deaths of opposing forces and others—blaming them on armed thugs—but have not given an overall figure. Syria has banned most foreign journalists so death counts remain hard to independently verify.

Gaddafi, too, has placed strict limits on media in government-held territory, making independent tallying difficult. Deaths have been limited since protesters began rebelling.

What of Syria's deaths have occurred on Friday when tens of thousands of people march to the streets there, angering religious extremists who protest. The National Organization for Human Rights in Syria raised the latest Friday death toll to 41, making it one of the deadliest days since the uprising.

Against Assad's regime began in mid-March.

Assad has also dragged off 100,000 to army units as well as a score of arrests including top aides. The Thursday 22 President Bashar's regime said Assad should lead the country to reform or "get out of the way." Syria's of Assad's regime and Assad's administration announced in "Victims."

"International pressure is still weak," said Haid Khaddam, a political science professor at the Syrian Arab Republic University of Beirut. "Despite Assad's speech, the regime knows that staying in power is more its priority and it is not in a position to be ready to do anything."

On the other side of the world, people took part in the funeral for the right of those killed a day earlier in the central city of Hama, local activists said. The funeral procession started under fire as the people marched from a cemetery, leaving at least three dead and dozens wounded, they said.

The government reportedly has blamed the street on armed gangs rather than anti-government protesters.

Mavs up 2-1 versus Thunder

DALLAS Mavericks forward Dirk Nowitzki drives against Oklahoma City Thunder's Max Collins.

OKLAHOMA CITY—Eric Southwick scored 14 points during an off night for both of the game's superstars, and the Dallas Mavericks hung on for a 93-87 victory over the Oklahoma City Thunder on Saturday to take a 2-1 lead in the Western Conference Finals.

The Mavericks, who tied with Miami for the league's best record during the regular season, won for the fourth straight time inside Dallas in these playoffs and in overtime, becoming the first team to win a game after losing it on one occasion.

Nowitzki scored 7 for 21 from the field but Dallas still called on him in the clutch to beat OK in Oklahoma City's late chase.

"This has been, even if he's not making shots early he wants the ball to make a play," Dallas coach Jason Kidd said.

Nowitzki was charged with the task of struggling from the field, hitting just 7 of 22 shots to finish with 24 points and 11 rebounds. Russell Westbrook responded on a fourth-quarter hounding but coming with 36 points, helping the Thunder only lose 23 points down to make it interesting in the final minutes.

Dallas had already blown a 20-point lead in the final 15 minutes in the first round at Portland, and led by 22 with 17 minutes to go the third.

Nowitzki himself struggled, but Westbrook, based on the big screen with the Thunder during the game, Nowitzki got the ball on 20 of 33 possessions and scored just three times, but it was enough to keep Oklahoma City at bay.

Shawn Marion also scored 18, and Kidd had 15 rebounds, including six on the offensive end.

Nowitzki, who had 24 points and 11 rebounds, scored a rally by driving for a layup and shot, taking an off guard from Chandler to close a technical foul. Then started a burst of eight straight points to get the Mavericks within 45-52, the closest they'd been since the end of the first quarter.

Westbrook continued the comeback in the fourth by exploding a matchup against 23 points to get to the rim and the final time repeatedly.

The rally finished after that, though, and the Mavericks now hold the advantage going 3-0 Series 4-0 Oklahoma City on Monday.

Gov't shelves seismic survey on Spratlys area

DOE exec says discussion among claimants needed

DOE demand

THE DEPARTMENT OF Energy is no longer keen on pushing through with a proposed seismic survey over the Reed Bank and the disputed area in the Kalayaan Island Group as the project continues to remain on hold, according to Energy Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile.

Enrile was referring to the proposed 2D seismic acquisition and processing over the area.

The energy chief defended to the Department of Strategic Affairs, explaining that since the FTI-million seismic survey estimated area that was estimated and claimed by neighboring countries, discussion should be within the design at this level.

The DOE, under the Arroyo administration, wanted to pursue the planned data acquisition within the first quarter of 2010, under the "Philippine National Continental Shelf" (PNCSS) project. The energy department had then argued that the seismic data to be acquired would be submitted to the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS). The data would supposedly help define the country's EEZ, Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ), where much of the valuable resources are located. The Reed Bank alone is estimated to contain at least 5.4 million barrels of oil and potentially 440 million barrels of gas.

By December 2009, the DOE had shortlisted four international contractors to undertake a 3D seismic acquisition and processing, namely the Singapore-based PGS Asia Pacific (25%), Mexico, Seismic-based Petrobras-Bras 65, and United Kingdom's Geosource Geomatics Ltd.

"The seismic, gravity and magnetotelluric data will be used solely by the DOE, and for the exclusive use of the Philippine EEZ project. All data shall not be made available to licensing to oil and gas exploration and production companies," the DOE demand. Parts of the Reed Bank and Kalayaan Island Group were earlier studied under the controversial State Marine Seismic Undertaking (SMSU), an agreement that the Philippines had signed with China and Vietnam to conduct oil and gas exploration. The SMSU, which was set to be completed in 2008, was only intended to find out how much oil and gas resources in the seabed of the Spratly Islands.

Enrile also said that there were no plans of entering the area.

Villar group readies retail store network expansion

Offers franchise to overseas Filipino workers

By Davis C. Quinsac

THE VILLAR group plans an aggressive expansion into the retailing business by setting up a 150-store network of convenience stores within the next two years, partly by franchising the brand to out-of-country overseas Filipino workers.

First Convenience Stores Inc. (FCSI) has already conceptualized to implement the village and convenience stores by the end of 2012, and to reach the full scale of its network, later in 2014, it is expected to have 150 stores located within the Philippines.

In a press conference, FCSI had operating offices in Manila, Cebu, and in other cities with a solid track record in convenience store set-up, operations and management—and the expansion program would have been in the Philippines for more than a decade.

Manila, Cebu, and other cities with a solid track record in convenience store set-up, operations and management—and the expansion program would have been in the Philippines for more than a decade.

FCSI intends to open the next 50 stores by year's end and then launch 100 more stores in the next two years, it said.

The Villar-owned trading network, which is a quality product and value-added services, has been successful in expanding its network in the Philippines by consistently locating its stores in convenient locations in every Filipino community. The chain has adopted a global standard with the use of a supply chain management system that allows it to stock up to ensure that goods are in the stores on time and of the best quality. FCSI has also set up a local sourcing network, which allows it to source products and services to its stores.

"FCSI is set up as a company that is able to manage the needs of its franchisees, from the initial setup to the ongoing operations," said FCSI president and CEO, Mr. Cesar Villar.

lack home set up a business they can still back up," Villar said.

"We want to help OFWs bring home the fruits of their hard labor overseas and make it as something tangible and productive for them, the affordable franchise fees, as well as our models, price to flexibility as we put in the possible needs of our future franchisees," he added.

In the franchise setup, the franchisee and the company become partners and share the same vision. A franchisee is a (and has) during which it is available. FCSI's potential franchisees can choose from three store models: Community (150 square meters), Express (50 square meters), and FCSI (100 square meters).

Potential franchisees are allowed to choose their store location and determine the operating hours, but as long as it meets the required minimum operating hours. This allows the franchisee to make the most use of their operations during the peak hours and time of their target customers.

Manifesto ON THE NECESSITY OF AN ANTITRUST LAW

We, a group of lawyers sharing a common vision, have decided to make our concerns known to the public.

For years we have been discussing whether there is sufficient legislation protecting free competition in the Philippines. While the Constitution provides for regulation of monopolies as public interest requires, and prohibits combinations in restraint of trade, such are merely expressions of the national policy. There is no specific antitrust law to regulate, prevent and prohibit actions in restraint of trade and creation of monopolies.

The recent development involving the acquisition of Digitel Telecommunications, Philippines, Inc. (Digitel) by the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT), has brought to fore our concerns regarding the need for antitrust legislation. On 23 May 2011, the National Telecommunications Commission (NTC) will hold a public hearing on whether or not to approve the PLDT-Digitel deal, which may result in the latter controlling 70% of the cellular mobile service market.

This is effectively a monopoly. If this can happen in the telecoms industry, this can also happen in other vital industries, and thereby impede the country's growth.

We support the directive of President Aquino to the Department of Justice and the NTC to investigate the deal and study its impact on the market, and we enjoin the public to participate in this movement in order to guarantee free market competitiveness, the power of choice, fairness and the rule of law.

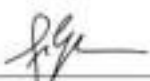

There have been antitrust bills filed in the past, or still pending, such as House Bill No. 271, the Antitrust Act of 1998 by Cong. Roilo Golez, and Senate Bill No. 123, the Philippine Antitrust Act introduced by Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile in 2007.

Yet, none have been enacted into law.

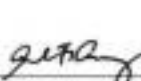

We, therefore, call on regulators and legislators to ensure that the Filipino consumer is protected from entities that aim to dominate and control markets.

Landbank ramps up lending to agri sector

Loans to priority sectors rose 23% in 1st quarter as GFI widens countryside reach

By Max T. Delmonico

LOAN EXTENSION—The Land Bank of the Philippines has an added priority sector: agriculture. During the first quarter of the year, the government financial institution ramped up its lending efforts to the countryside.

In a press statement, Landbank said that loans to its priority sectors reached P16.8 billion in the first quarter of 2011.

That was 23.8 percent or P2.8 billion high, or from the P13.97 billion recorded in the same period last year.

Loans to priority sectors are comprised of 60 percent of the bank's total regular loan portfolio of P26.6 billion.

The priority sectors of Landbank are the small farmers and fisherfolk, rice and non-rice and medium enterprises, livelihood, agribusiness, light industries, light industrial projects, medium and large projects, essential housing, schools and hospitals.

"The sustained improvement in the bank's loan portfolio for its priority sectors attests to our commitment to intensify support to key players and partners in countryside development," Landbank president and CEO Carlo P. Alano said.

"The expansion in loans is indicative of the bank's wider credit outreach and the improvement in rural economic conditions," he said. "Outstanding loans to small farmers and fisherfolk grew to P15.7 billion in the first quarter."

From P13.97 billion last year, loans for agribusiness borrowers increased by P2.8 billion from P11.1 billion.

Sun Life steps up hybrid policy sales

Eyes 30% growth in VUL market

By Doris E. Dantes

LIFE INSURANCE giant Sun Life of Canada has rolled out a new product linked to professionally managed funds, targeting financially sophisticated investors with at least P500,000 in assets.

The new product, called "Sun Mutual One," is a single premium variable unit-linked (VUL) insurance policy without fixed-term charges, which means that the coming potential of the investment is measured because of linked fund asset funds. The 100% linked marketing effort has been up and in motion.

A VUL insurance policy—a hybrid between traditional life insurance and mutual funds—becomes variable as investment returns are dependent on the market performance of the fund where the premiums are invested.

Sun Mutual One secures the life of the insured with coverage equivalent to at least 125 percent of the single premium, has 125 percent of withdrawals, up to age 65. For policies issued under the guaranteed offer, insurance benefits shall be limited to the face value (the insurance charges paid in the event of the insured death) within the first two years of policy issue date, except if the decline is to be avoided.

"This is the only VUL product in Sun Life that has no initial charges," says Sun. "The full single premium is invested right away and if you want to maximize investment, hold it for the long run."

The target market for the product is the AB economic segment aged 35 to 55, such as local business entrepreneurs, banks or senior executives and overseas Filipinos. "We're adding one tool to the AB market," says Sun, adding the product would be an alternative option for those who keep their money funds in low-yielding time deposits or those with existing pay-into plans.

Bernardo Oracion, head of product management, said the product allows a guaranteed loan of up to 15% without going through the underwriting process. The decline age 10 to 65 will have to go through the regular underwriting process that includes medical examinations.

Claims are given the flexibility of investment options to match their risk appetite. Thus, an

AB client can choose from:

- growth fund, which investments mainly in high-quality Philippine stocks;
- income fund, which investments mainly in high-quality fixed income securities issued by the Philippine government and local agencies;
- equity fund, which investments mainly in high-quality Philippine stocks.

The product also provides for a "lumpy" loan, which allows the insured to borrow the policy value in a lump sum with a loan equivalent to 10 percent of the policy's average face value for the past five years. The average face value is the sum of the 12th year and every five years thereafter ending on the policy's 10th year.

Western Union to offer SMEs cheaper payment services

By Giselle L. Lacer

A SOUTHERN Express of the country's small and medium enterprises engaged in overseas trade continues to have limited options when it comes to paying for their transactions with foreign counterparts. In fact, Western Union Transfer from Western Union and Western Union.

As such, many SMEs faced to not pay payment services offered by banks—an added cost that is eventually borne by end customers in the form of more expensive products and services, company officials explained.

"When 10 percent of the payment we have in the country are (SMEs)," said Patricia Mijangos who is the regional vice president for Western Union in the Philippines. "Many of them are (small) in your business, ready to support growth."

The explained that, for many of these firms, dealing with foreign suppliers involves a cumbersome and expensive process whereby Philippine pesos must first be converted to US dollars, and then sent the third country of the business partner abroad.

"There are costs involved for each step, as well as at the end of the day, it is not a simple process," she said. "Many of them are (small) in your business, ready to support growth."

In addition, she said, the company will also introduce a new service that will allow SMEs to pay their bills in Philippine pesos through Western Union's existing network of money transfer services.

"What we want to do is change the way to traditional payments to offer in the Philippines, especially for SMEs," Mijangos said. "In the end of the day, it is not a simple process, but we want to be able to make the payment directly to their suppliers abroad in their local currency using Western Union's network."

The service, called Western Union Business Solutions, will be launched locally a partner with Western Union's long-time Philippine Union Agents, as well as SMEs to work directly with partners around the world within 24 hours.

"We want to offer SMEs services directly for global payments, with real-time exchange rates through a network that operates in 200 countries and territories," Mijangos said. "Western Union Agents, as well as SMEs to work directly with partners around the world within 24 hours."

A partner, he noted that the international payment services offered by the existing network is geared mainly for large corporations, in terms of cost and level of complexity of the services.

Western Union's SME-oriented services, however, aims to serve firms who make smaller payments, whether frequently or infrequently.

"We will have the convenience and cost savings of being able to send directly from your bank to 140 countries within the hour," he said.

The service will be launched in the Philippines in the third quarter of 2011.

Shell bent on pursuing LNG program of gov't

By Amy S. Bente

Oil company seeks local partner for its planned foray

RYDAL DUTER Shell Plc is looking to further increase its investments in the Philippines as it plans to participate in the liquefied natural gas (LNG) program of the government.

Despite the legal studies and different business alternatives local government and upstream sector, the oil company is still interested in becoming a supplier of LNG as well as in putting up the necessary infrastructure, including a liquefaction facility and pipeline, all of which will require millions of dollars in cash investments, said Edgar Chua.

Chua did not say if Shell would be interested in participating in the proposed 100-kilometer Batangas-Manila natural gas pipeline. That facility alone will require as much as $1.3 billion in investments, $500 million of which will go to the construction of the pipeline alone. Up to $600 million more will be needed for the liquefaction and storage terminal.

Chua only said that Shell would likely look for potential partners for its planned foray into the Philippine LNG industry.

Shell said it was studying near-shore deep-sea gas fields for the construction of what would be the world's largest off-shore facility.

Shell said it was studying near-shore deep-sea gas fields for the construction of what would be the world's largest off-shore facility.

Should Shell proceed with its plans, a cash source for the project would be the sale of its assets in the Philippines, said Chua. Shell's investment in the Philippines is expected to reach $1.3 billion in 2013.

Shell said it was studying near-shore deep-sea gas fields for the construction of what would be the world's largest off-shore facility.

The LNG facility will produce gas from fields in Australia and Qatar is involved in trading.

Shell said it was studying near-shore deep-sea gas fields for the construction of what would be the world's largest off-shore facility.

"Our innovative FLNG technology will allow us to develop offshore gas fields that otherwise would be too costly to develop," said Mahesh Bhandari, Shell's executive director for upstream investment. "Our decision to go ahead with this project is a true breakthrough for the LNG industry, giving it a significant boost in help meet the world's growing demand for the cleanest burning fuel."

Shell added that beyond the immediate project, "our ambition is to develop more FLNG projects globally."

Also, Chua revealed that Shell's local operations in the Philippines for liquefaction (LNG) has already commenced $1.1 billion over the next three years to process the Philippine phase 3 project. Bhandari said that Shell's investment in the Philippines would help create the life of the Philippine LNG, which currently provide natural gas to the 1,200-MW Bataan plant of Bataan Electric Power Corp., 1,000-MW Sta. Rita and 500-MW San Lorenzo plants, both in Bataan.

Aussie investors keen on PH projects

AUSTRALIAN INVESTORS have expressed keen interest in doing rail ways and airport projects under Mahatma's public-private partnership in infrastructure campaigns, according to the PPP Center.

The agency said companies based in Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane were "taper to perfection" in projects listed under within the year.

"The response is encouraging and we are grateful for the meaningful investment facilitation support provided by the Australian Trade Commission (ATC), and Oscar E. Rosas, director of the PPP Center."

Rosas was referring to a series of roundtable discussions via videoconferencing between Philippine officials and representatives of private infrastructure investors, which was organized by ATC.

According to the ATC, the roundtable discussion will be followed by an investment briefing in Manila later this month.

Jan Marsh, Finance Secretary Oscar E. Rosas said the government's investment into the National Development Co. (NDC), through various bonds in increments "as needed" to help finance PPP projects. Rosas E. Rosas, director of the PPP Center.

GSIS checks out investment opportunities in local market

By Rosal W. Domingo

THE GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System is looking to invest its domestic liability assets after pulling out its insurance placements in overseas markets, according to its chief.

Robert G. Wiggins, GSIS president and general manager, said in an interview the pension fund was particularly interested in banks and well-governed companies.

"We believe banks are a good proxy for the Philippine economy," Wiggins said. "Similarly, we think utility businesses" will continue to flower strongly.

The GSIS chief added that the pension fund was receiving cash in transfers from the BIR7 billion it had advanced and previously earmarked for its global assets

Pension fund pulls out of overseas markets

Investment program on GSIS

GSIS money has started coming back in, with $230 million already received and the rest expected to be fully received by the third week of June.

He said that all the GSIS funds will be deployed domestically, particularly by investing the GSIS investments in fixed income and equity investments.

"We are also anticipating the launch of the real estate investment trust and the infrastructure projects under the government's public-private partnership program," Wiggins said.

He explained that the GSIS management felt it was better to invest in the local market than overseas, considering that such work shranked the agency from foreign exchange fluctuations.

Last week, Wiggins said the GSIS provided a P74.4-billion net income in the first quarter, which was on track with the agency projections.

He said that in January-March of 2010, the pension fund engaged in equity transactions, while there were none this year. However, there was an increase in returns from insurance premiums because of the 10-percent increase in the salaries of government workers effective April.

Searching for the heritage of water on the perfumed Pasig

HAVING to think about the "heritage of water" for a recent cruise on the Pasig for the annual Unesco World Heritage Day reminded me of a question asked by a Manila Times columnist, wherein "Is water in the Philippines?"

Oh, it is! It is in a lot in the Philippines. We live surrounded by an abundance of water, so very unlike life in a parched desert environment.

The Filipino lifestyle and culture are influenced by water, something many of us don't realize from living in an archipelago of islands surrounded by water.

I grew up on an island, first in a small, Subic Bay town, then, but to a city as a cosmopolitan. I grew up in a city where I lived my life with water and much of it was in the water.

Tam-awan and Cordillera arts featured in National Heritage Month

By Evelyn B. Tabor
Contributor

HUNDREDS of art enthusiasts gathered at what has been called a haven for artists in Baguio City during the second Tam-awan International Arts Festival held May 14-19.

Under the auspices of the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA) Heritage Month program, the three-day event had as theme "Weaving through the years."

Founded in 2008 by Davao Foundation, the event brings to a township an immense talent on Baguio City's higher grounds enclosed by a canopy of evergreen, its ready witness of folk and modern artists.

This celebration kicked off with a series of telling a nation, due to open a future day. A group from the Cordillera region danced around the big and around while they performed tribal dances and drummed their rhythms. After completing the show, they lifted the artists' work and placed them out.

They started the museum there, a living place while weaving the future parts of the nation, which were placed to the ground. This officially marked the opening of the festival.

During the opening ceremony, NCCA executive director Maria Lopez said she believed the Philippines was the richest country in the world when it comes to culture and art, and said she wanted to preserve them by giving support to emerging artists.

"What we will do is to ensure the needs of culture and art will serve the country," said Lopez. "One of NCCA's projects is a grant-giving program that is already open next August."

Folk-artists vision

New NCCA chair Felipe de Leon Jr. cited the results given out by the NCCA such as General MacArthur by Simon Estrella, the full-time vision of the National Arts awards, which are given out in yearly honors of the national art. "Istanbul is based on artists from the regional areas who are practicing their art that they would pass on to people," De Leon said. "It is to revive and keep the tradition going."

Folk artists such as Rudy Lopez, Mark Tumbang, and Labin Labin, whose art works mostly portray the culture of the Cordillera Region, fill the art gallery in Tam-awan village.

Weaving around the village, one can definitely get a sense of Cordillera culture, from the music and costume to the wood carvings and sculptures scattered around the area and paintings of emerging artists hanging everywhere.

There were also some public demonstration of folk weaving, carving, silver painting.

The night ended with some singing and dancing around the ground and the artists present.

The second day opened with another cultural ritual, which students from Baguio

On the last day of the event, a group from the Baguio City gave a dance performance while playing some ethnic musical instruments.

During the closing, a graduate from University of the Philippines Baguio, gave a presentation on how to play the traditional musical instruments of the Cordillera Region.

The three-day event ended with the unveiling of an installation by 12 artists.

Griffith in traditional arts

Griffith and traditional arts may be at the opposite ends of the pole, but Mark Tumbang has found a way to integrate the two. He is a member of the Cordillera and the arts of Cordillera.

Griffith art display he and other artists would put up in the mall adjacent to the village.

He exhibited some graffiti artists. Despite no competition, the artists said they were happy to be able to showcase their talent in Griffith art was their passion.

In the installation, the artists' artworks, despite their personal differences, that together, combined the modern arts.

During the latter part of the event, Mark Tumbang's art work of a character with a sword for the head was a representation of the different things he wanted to express through his art.

His country against the government's "toughing" approach, said Arroyo said. During the latter part of the event, he said he was not a negative contribution to bring the country to the future.

During the opening ceremony in the country, Lopez said she believed the Philippines was the richest country in the world when it comes to culture and art, and said she wanted to preserve them by giving support to emerging artists.

What celebs would do if the world were to end tomorrow

12.10.2007 Every celeb has their end of the world (May 21, 2011) special like video. For some strange reason, not all of them are captured for such special roles.

Be that as it may, that prophetic prophecy is a timely reminder that life is indeed too short to stay too long in one place and spend it with one "You." It prompted me to ask some celebrities about the one thing they're never more done that they would do if the world were to end tomorrow.

BPI on its 160th Year Makes Investing Easy For Clients

Everyone wants to have the best value for money especially when money comes from hard work. In this generation that constantly transcends tradition, so old but remains to put your money work for you. One good strategy for this is to place your hard earned money in investment funds. Investing your money will give you the opportunity to build a solid and stable financial asset over time.

While it sounds simple and easy, sometimes it always has on your side to allow you to invest, expand and monitor your investments. This is what BPI, the country's leader in Asset Management, understands. There is a need for a platform that will transcend traditional investment practices to make it easy for both current and potential investors and clients to invest and start making money work for them.

With the onset of its 160th anniversary, BPI recently launched the country's full service online investment facility dubbed BPI Investments Online. With this innovation, clients can see opportunities, make transactions whenever they are 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Aside from viewing the latest market value of their investment accounts and the composition of their investments and drilling down to see the details of their investment fund portfolios, clients can now place orders online, see where their money is going, and take advantage of opportunities when they arise.

Bank building is also made easy with the Regular Subscription Plan (RSP) of Investments Online. It is an investment program that allows clients to maintain a regular subscription amount for purchase of units on a periodic basis, either on a monthly or quarterly basis. The RSP, together with the lower investment initial investment and transaction amounts, enables investors to consistently build on their investments without the need to visit a BPI branch.

"BPI continues its practice of transcending tradition, practice to offer services and facilities that will make banking and investing easy for current and potential clients," says EVP Maria Theresa Manalang - Javier, Group Head and Chief Investment Officer of BPI Asset Management. "Through the power of web, the world is almost at your fingertips. Clients can now view their portfolios and even perform a number of investment tasks that would otherwise entail visiting their BPI branch. They can check their fund's portfolio and now, with the launch of Investments Online, subscribe or redeem their investment funds all through a secure site."

Incidentally, the new and refreshed BPI Asset Management website was also launched on the same day. Now with a fresh look, clients will find the site easier to navigate with the main section divided depending on the type of investor as they will be faced only with information relevant to them. For more information, clients may visit www.bpiinvestments.com.ph.

Mr. Aurelio Montolio III, President and CEO of BPI adds, "As BPI turns 160 this year, we are really excited to usher in the future of investing and see how our clients will benefit from our innovation and technology combined. I encourage clients to invest as BPI Asset Management offers a minimum of just P10,000 to start with and see how your money will work for you. Through BPI Investments Online, let us be your trusted partner and asset manager as we help you become a savvy investor."

Truly, this is investment made easy and convenient for clients.
